

ans al

5

system. The component comprises an outer housing having a rotatable shaft disposed within the housing. The shaft is supported by one or more bearings, and a lubricant is disposed within the housing. A conduit is provided for conducting a lubricant from the labricant pump to desired locations, such as the one or more bearings.